

Table of contents

1	Introduction	1
1.1	Who this publication is for	1
1.2	Some terms we use	1
1.3	Other publications which may be relevant	3
1.4	Updating of publications	3
1.5	An overview of the exceptions that are relevant to educational institutions ..	3
2	Reproducing text, images and music – under the “hardcopy” scheme	5
2.1	The relationship between the hardcopy and electronic use schemes	5
2.2	The hardcopy scheme in Part VB of the Copyright Act	5
2.3	Reproducing hardcopy text, images and music scores	5
2.4	Common questions about the hardcopy scheme	7
3	Using text, images and music under the “electronic use” scheme	13
3.1	The electronic use scheme	13
3.2	Making reproductions under the electronic use scheme	13
3.3	Communicating under the electronic use scheme	15
3.4	Common questions about the electronic use scheme	16
4	Procedures relating to the schemes	18
4.1	Remuneration notices	18
4.2	What records to make when relying on the schemes	19
4.3	Information to be put onto reproductions and communications	20
4.4	Limiting access to electronic copies and communications	21
4.5	Payment	21
5	Using the internet	22
5.1	What can you use from the internet?	22
5.2	More detail on using text and music scores from the internet	22
5.3	Websites with restricted access	24
5.4	Using websites, blogs and social media sites	25
5.5	Using Creative Commons content	26
5.6	Using tablets	26
5.7	Student use of the internet	26
5.8	Caching websites	27
5.9	Common questions about using the internet	27

6	Miscellaneous exceptions for using text, images and music in education	29
6.1	“Insubstantial portions” of literary and dramatic works	29
6.2	Putting copyright works into exams	30
6.3	Writing out by hand	31
6.4	Including a “short extract” in a collection	32
6.5	Fair dealing	32
6.6	Common questions about the miscellaneous exceptions	33
7	Photocopying print music in schools under the AMCOS licence	34
7.1	Which institutions are covered by an AMCOS licence?	34
7.2	Who is not eligible for a licence?	34
7.3	What music can be copied under the AMCOS licence?	34
7.4	What type of copying is permitted under the AMCOS licence?	35
7.5	Purpose of copying	36
7.6	Copying limits	36
7.7	Marking requirements	36
7.8	Can we arrange music under the licence?	38
7.9	Where to get further information	38
7.10	How does the AMCOS licence relate to the educational copying provisions in the Act?	38
8	Reproducing text, images and music for extracurricular activities	39
8.1	Private tuition	39
8.2	Making reproductions of music for choirs, bands and other musical groups operating in the institution	39
8.3	Making reproductions for plays, musicals and operas	40
8.4	Student clubs and societies	40
9	Reproducing and communicating material for people with disabilities	41
9.1	Assisting people with a print disability	41
9.2	Assisting people with an intellectual disability	43
9.3	The “flexible dealing” provision	44
10	Student use of copyright material	45
10.1	Fair dealing for research or study	45
10.2	Fair dealing for other purposes	46
10.3	Limiting your liability	46

11 Flexible dealing	48
11.1 Section 200AB – The “special case” or “flexible dealing” exception	48
11.2 The use must not “conflict with a normal exploitation”	49
11.3 The use must not “unreasonably prejudice the legitimate interests of the copyright owner”	49
11.4 The circumstances of the use must amount to a “special case”	50
11.5 Weighing up the section 200AB factors	50
11.6 Labelling and notation under section 200AB	50
11.7 How long can I keep something online under section 200AB?	50
12 Moral rights	52
12.1 What are moral rights?	52
12.2 Exceptions to moral rights	52
12.3 Respecting moral rights in educational institutions	52
Appendix 1: Libraries in educational institutions	54
Appendix 2: Notice for copying equipment	56
Appendix 3: Who can be an educational institution for copyright purposes	57
Appendix 4: Copyright collecting societies	58
Copyright Agency	58
Viscopy	58
Australasian Mechanical Copyright Owners Society (AMCOS)	58